

Jonah Hunt
Attorney - Partner

Jonah represents community associations in a broad range of litigation matters, including those involving construction, easements, covenant enforcement, foreclosure, elections, leasing, and governance disputes. He also represents associations in first-party property claims, appraisals and litigation, obtaining substantial recoveries for his clients.

Jonah also advises associations on general counsel matters, including the interpretation and amendment of governing documents, election and voting issues, and preparation of opinion letters, policies and rules. He provides managers and board members the information and guidance they need to make informed decisions, avoid problems, and minimize risk.

Jonah is a frequent speaker at educational programs pertaining to community association law and real estate litigation.

Jonah also represents commercial clients in litigation, having handled cases before the Colorado Court of Appeals, Colorado Supreme Court, U.S. Bankruptcy Court, and the U.S. District Court for the State of Colorado.

Expertise

Litigation, Arbitration and Mediation
First-Party Property Claims
Construction Disputes
Covenant Enforcement
Association Governance
General Counsel

Professional and Community Involvement

Community Associations Institute, Member – Rocky Mountain and Southern Colorado Chapters
Colorado and Denver Bar Associations, Member - Real Estate and Litigation Sections
LoDo District, Inc., Member

Instructor:

- Pitkin, Garfield, and Colorado Bar Associations
- CLE in Colorado
- National Business Institute

Education

University of Denver, College of Law (J.D., 2002)
University of California, Santa Barbara (B.A., 1998)